Eastern Caribbean Forecast: A weak low level trough will be moving over the Windwards and Barbados today. As a result skies over these Islands are expected to be partly cloudy to cloudy with a moderate chance of brief showers. Similar weather is expected over Puerto Rico because of local effect and instability. The northern end of the trough will move over the Leewards later today; however because of low moisture levels, skies over these Islands will be partly cloudy in general with a slight chance of a shower.
